ABOUT

SNU Honors is a special program designed to provide those students who are gifted academically and creatively with the opportunity to participate in a curriculum that allows them to go further and deeper in their coursework and to make interdisciplinary connections. In addition to specialized classes which are smaller and discussion-oriented, the Honors Program also provides a means of networking with other students through extracurricular activities including service projects, the Library Lock-In, and celebrations. We also focus on pre-professionalizing and preparing Honors students to be excellent graduate school, professional school or job applicants following graduation.

“The Honors Program has provided me with great opportunities to grow during my undergrad years by providing classes in cultural competence and animal ethics, as well as by having community involvement opportunities. Getting to mentor kids at a Title 1 school and write a grant on their behalf was one of the most rewarding opportunities.”

–Ana Victoria Ruiz Bautista
