ACCOUNTING

ABOUT

The Accounting program aligns with the professional and faith-based development of accounting students and is consequently connected to the overall university mission "To make Christlike disciples through higher education." The Accounting program focuses on learning outcomes designed to help students navigate through these times of complex accounting and business issues as well as prepare them for launching their careers. SNU Accounting graduates have pursued careers as public accountants and auditors, financial and management accountants, internal auditors, information technology (IT) auditors, financial analysts, government accountants, and international business. The SNU School of Business student board of directors, through various student-led activities, has provided leadership experience to accounting students. As part of their degree program, accounting students are encouraged to seek and find an internship during their junior or senior year(s) adding real-world on the job training to their overall college experience.

"One of my favorite memories in the accounting program was in Principles of Accounting I and II when our professor would have us research articles of how people utilized their faith in their accounting careers all around the world. It opened my eyes to see how many people truly use their faith in making decisions in the world of business."
